

The number of sheep in a herd is equal to the number of legs divided by four.

This is a highly inefficient way of counting sheep. But if we see only the legs and cannot see the heads, then this is the only available way.